

PARK RYNIE ROUTE

Tar = 353 km

2014

To the South Coast via Park Rynie

The Park Rynie Tar Route heads down the N3 to the Umlaas Road (Exit 61) off-ramp at Camperdown, where breakfast can be had at the famous Vans Hotel, a popular breakfast run stop. This venue is also available for lunch as it is also on the 'in' loop of the ride, with a later breakfast being enjoyed in Umkomaas at Waves, right on the beach. A Wimpy, Steers and Debonairs are also available on the Scottburgh beachfront.

From Umlaas Road, proceed to the Thornville Junction and bear left on the slip road to Richmond on the twisty R56. Beware the speed trap just past the Richmond turnoff, 80km/h. Keeping to the R56 through the Umkomaas Valley the road surface deteriorates and care must be taken until over the bridge at the bottom. Going up the other side is one of the best tar road rides in KZN, and there are a few view sites where great photographs are possible on a good day. At the Ixopo crossroads, those needing fuel turn right and then first left, otherwise turn left onto the R612 to the coast (90 kilometers).

Once past the N2 at Park Rynie turn left onto the R102 where food and fuel are available at numerous outlets, including the Scottburgh beach front and The Waves at Umkomaas, right on the beach. The route then moves to Winkelspruit on the R102 and then on to the Umbumbulu Road R603, past the Eston Crossroads and back to Vans Hotel at Umlaas Road. From there onto the N3 and back to Midmar.

PARK RYNIE ROUTE

Tar = 353 km

2014

